CONFERENCE TO SETTLE TROUBLES

Burley and Equity Tobacco Leaders to meet.

Expected That Differences Over Form of Contract Will Be Adjusted.

Georgetown, Ky., July 20.—At a meeting here on the question of pooling the Burley tobacco crop there was a sharp exchange of words between J. Campbell Cantrill, president of the Equity Society and Clarence LeBus, president of the Burley Society but the result was the arranging of a meeting between the executive committee of the Society of Equity for Thursday night at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington to see if some adjustment cannot be made of the dispute between the two associations.

The meeting was opened with a speech by Judge E. C. O'Rear, of the Appellate Court who made over an hours' address giving a history of the origin of pools in the English Guild, and followed it to the labor union of the present time. He refused to enter into a discussion of the new contract submitted to the tobacco people by the Burley Board of Control, as this might come before him and his court as a matter to be later adjudicated.

He was followed by M. Hanna, of Shelby county. Mr. Hanna delivered a witty and forceful speech, in which he made a candid reference to the differences between the Burley Association and the American Society of Equity.

Judge O'Rear referred to our State motto and said: "Now let's get together like you and your wife did long ago, not like cats."

"The Equity association is right in saying the mother still has strength to help, and I now offer this proposition. Let's get together, let's a few of us talk over the matter."

Addressing President J. Campbell Cantrill, who was seated in the audience Judge O'Rear said: "Can I ask you to Louisville to meet us?"

To an affirmative reply Thursday was fixed as the date and Lexington the place.

Calls were made by the big audience for Mr. Cantrill and at the invitation of the chairman the president of the Equity Association said in part:

I appreciate the spirit of this invitation to speak in this convention in which I have no right to take part. I have pondered with seriousness these differences for the past thirty days, and my word shall be meant for the best of the tobacco situation. The question is not shall we tobacco be pooled that was settled long ago, when the biggest world's battle was won. The question presented is shall the Burley people sign the new contract or by the voice of the people shall it be sent back to the board of control to put in form so you can sign it? As president for two years of the mother of all tobacco associations, I pledge you that if the Society of Equity goes against the interests of the farmer that day I'll resign.

We are not against a pool, but only against this contract. Shall the district board write this contract and force it down your throats or shall the people say what shall be written? It is my place to explain some statements recently published. I don't strike below the belt, but I went before the board in opposition to this contract. I made this proposition myself. When the fight is won and a half million dollars is in the Burley treasury I think you should help us to educate and organize and if you will give the Equity Association $20,000 we'll put our paper in forty thousand homes. I sent to Indianapolis the home of this paper, for price; proposed that the Burley Association send this paper for twelve months educating the people into a readiness to sign this proposition which was made last winter after the sale. A member on the Burley board has since expressed regret that this was done.

The two organizations should work together, but is it fair for our educational campaign getting you into shape to go ahead, then to kick us out and say go your way? Had they met us in the same spirit we approached them there would have been no trouble. In behalf of Justice, I beg the leaders of Burley not to disclaim us but to concede us recognition for services rendered.

Now to reach a state of harmony so that the farmers shall have something to do with the disposition of their tobacco leaves some power with the county board, for there is hardly a feature in the new contract like the old one. Why throw overboard the old one when so successful, and why throw over the Equity Society and those who had aided toward its success? I believe when the men of this board see men heretofore loyal not signing up they'll look to see why. I said before the board: "We differ on this contract, but if you will put it before six counties for open debate for and against, and they endorse it, I will agree to support the contract. If the board is unwilling to give the people the contract they they it should reign."

Why start the campaign in these loyal counties where stand so many counties heretofore not pooled? Why not send organizers to them and have them sign before the loyal counties do?

I give LeBus credit for his backbone in sticking to 17 cents. The pool of two years did not win, the cut-out crop did. There will probably not be another cut-out. Be careful and don't rush to destruction. Why not go to Fayette and Henry? I want to see 15 cents specified in the contract. No price is stipulated and they could take 5 cents. Why force the farmer to give up 10 per cent. You can't finance the pool on that. It took millions before there is no protection offered you in the contract, but the farmer will lose 20 per cent, if he does not comply with each condition.

I want to see a contract written that will induce men who have not pooled heretofore to say: "Cantrill, you are so fair we can't stand out against you longer." I have a right to a dissenting opinion, and as in a primary until it comes to the final fight. They, whatever contract is offered, I am a pool man.

Mr. Cantrill has named Ben Watson Dixon; J. H. McConnell, Princeton; L. P. Barrett, Henderson; George Davis, Owenton and J. W. McMillan, Butler a committee from the Equity Society to act with him at the conference. It is hoped the Burley Society will agree to do the right thing by the parent Society.

Kentucky to Show Corn.

M. C. Rankin, commissioner in the department of agriculture labor and statistics has been appointed vice president for Kentucky of the National Corn Association and announces that the state will make an exhibit at the National Corn Exposition in Omaha, December 6 to 18.

Arrangements were made at a conference of Corn Association officials with Mr. Rankin in Frankfort this week and it is expected Kentucky grain will take a high place and win many of the prizes in the first worth $50,000 which is offered at the show in Omaha. Mr. Rankin has one hundred or more boys in Kentucky growing corn from pure seed. They will show this in an exhibit to be held at the Kentucky state fair grounds and then the best will go to the National show.

As is well known Kentucky stands high as a corn producing state when acreage is considered. It is the hope of Mr. Rankin and his co-workers to bring the average yield per acre up to among the best in the United States.

Master Thomas Vance visited his friends Roy and Vance Hines Tuesday night.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS IN CONVENTION

Most Promising Meeting in Session at the Baptist Church.

The annual convention of the Ohio County Sunday School Association met at the Baptist church yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. T. C. Wilson, of the C. P. Church. He read and commented upon the 19th Psalm. The minutes of last year's session were read and approved. In the absence of the regular secretary, Miss Annie Pattou, Mr. J. H. B. Carsou was selected secretary pro tem.

Rev. T. C. Gebauer, State Worker, gave a splendid talk on the foundation and essentials of all successful Sunday school work.

Dr. E. W. Ford, the County President made his report which showed a substantial gain all long the line in the work. He reported about 40 schools visited on the first Sunday in July under the visitation program that the reports indicated about 5,000 pupils were in attendance at the various Sunday Schools on that day.

Rev. Virgil Elgin gave a splendid talk on what the Association may mean to the individual school.

Luncheon was served on the ground to the visiting delegates. There was a larger attendance than on any previous morning session since the organization of the association.

The afternoon session was replete with good talks and suggestions from the various workers.

The main feature of the evening session was an illustrated lecture on the life of Paul by Rev. T. C. Gebauer. The session will continue to day.

FOR THE BUSY READER

Fire in the business district of Marion, W. Va., caused a loss of $300,000.

Bloodhounds will be purchased to trail dynamiters of street cars at Evansville.

Andrew D. Gwynne, 100 years old a pioneer citizen of Memphis, died at his summer home, Fort Myers, Fla.

Barney Oldfield the driver of automobile racing cars, was knocked down at Cleofoe by a motor car as he was crossing the street.

The condition of Joseph Chamberlain, the English statesman, who has been in ill health for some time past, continues to improve gradually.

The report published in the Lisbon newspapers that King Manuel of Portugal is to be betrothed to Princess Al exandra of Fife is given authoritative denial at London.

Hubert Latham, who made an attempt to fly across the English channel with his monoplane but fell into the water announced that he expects to make another attempt on Friday.

Orville Wright made a flight in his aeroplane of over one hour and twenty minutes duration at Fort Myer, Va., yesterday, circling the parade ground eight times, executing a series of figure eights and landing successfully.

GOOD CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE SELECTED

Republicans Prepare For Victory—Advisory Committee Appointed.

At a meeting of the sub-committee recently appointed by the Ohio County Republican Executive Committee to select a Campaign Committee for the coming election, two of the committee, to-wit: M. L. Heavlin and C. M. Barnett being present and all of the county nominees, except two, the following committee was selected: James M. DeWeese, Simon Jones and Judge W. B. Taylor. Mr. DeWeese will act as chairman and it is likely that some lady stenographer will be selected to act as secretary.

The campaign committee then selected the following Advisory committee: Tom Fuqua, Magan; Andrew Thorp, McLeavy, T. W. Wallace, Cromwell; John Ford, Horse Branch; J. U. Wade, Fordsville; J. B. York, Olston, Wm. Hardin Point Pleasant, Joshua Greer, Ralph, Henry Woodburn, Rockport Lake Embry, Balzettown, Perry Ashby, Centertown, Albert Leach, Beaver Dam, J. B. Dennis Prentis, and H. C. Crowder, Rosine.

The above campaign committee meets with the approval of all the candidates and is a strong committee, made up of the very best men of the party and its selection insures an overwhelming majority for the Republican County ticket at the coming election.

MATRIMONIAL ADVENTURER

Confesses to Have Wedded Twenty Women.

Got Their Money, Then Skip- ped--Is 64 and Good Looking.

San Francisco, July 21.—It is all over with Christian Johnson, the German horse buyer and bigamy expert, champion to date of all his kind. Johnson was taken to-day from San Jose, where he was convicted yesterday, to San Quentin prison, to serve a sentence of seven years. When he has served his term most any city or village in the country can claim him at will and send him away on another charge of bigamy. He says that he has married so many women that he cannot remember them all. He was able to-day to recall twenty of his victims but as his list consists with only two exceptions of Western women, and as he is known to have operated heavily in marriage vows in New York and New Jersey and New England it is believed that the twenty represent less than half of his actual wives. He does not include Miss Julia A. Frederick, of Freeport, L. I., whom he married in 1900, deserting next day with $1,000 of her money.

Johnson is sixty-four years old, portly and fine looking and despite the handicap of years, is known to have married eight women since November, 1905. His love-making has been on even a more generous scale and according to his own statement he courted ten Portland, Ore., women one time but married only one of the lot. In probably hundreds of instances he merely made love to women and skipped away with some of their money varying from $200 to several thousands.

Johnson dates the beginning of his criminal career three years back, but as the marriage with Miss Fredericks took place nine years ago, and he came to this country in 1871, there is no telling how long he has made a living by the role of lover. "In 1906," he said, "I quit my business of buying horses, and from that day to this time I have been making my living by marrying making love to women, getting their money and deserting them."

Johnson was known as John Madison, John C. Anderson and C. O. Mueller, and it was under the name of Madison that he married Miss Frederick. He said that at first he was a woman hater, having been separated in Germany from a sweetheart who later died. "I married only one woman under the name of Madison," said. "Her name was Jones—if I remember rightly—Adn Jones. I got $1,800 from her because she said she loved me. I could have got $50,000."

The bigamist credits Mrs. Mary Brown, whom he married in Springfield, Mass., in 1905, and immediately deserted with being his first and only legal wife, but it is believed that perhaps a score antedated her.

Johnson says he was born on March 11, 1846 in Flensburg Schleswig-Holstein. He learned marine engineering and worked as a machinist in Trenton, New Jersey, when he came to America in 1871. But he left this five years later and returned to his father's trade as a horse dealer. He bought cavalry horses for the United States Army and later bought horses for the British Government making many trips across the water. He acted for Japan in the same capacity during the Russian war.

After his desertion of the Springfield widow Johnson went to New Orleans as a horse trader. Then his health failed and he determined to live on Cupid's bounty. His next venture according to his story, was with Mrs. Sylvia Pollard at San Francisco.

Two weeks after this false marriage Johnson said he had to go to town. Next he appeared in Portland where he married Mrs. Eliza Jones, widow of a wealthy coal dealer. Two weeks after the marriage he took her to Oakland, Cal., where, with $1,800 of her money in his pockets he skipped off for Memphis. His next marriage, victim's name forgotten took place in the East. A ceremony was resorted to, he said only when money could not be obtained beforehand.

Returning this spring to San Francisco Johnson married Mrs. Henrietta Leopold and Mrs. Josephine Tretheway, of Stockton, within one month of each other, on April 15, and May 17. On June 15, he wedded Catherine Hoeue, of San Diego, a maiden forty-two years old, who gave him $300. He was traced back to San Francisco last week by Miss Minnie Cather, whom he had married, and led into the hands of the officers.

GOOD OLD DAYS ARE PASSING AWAY

Wheat Threshing Time is Not the Same as it Was In Olden Days.

Wheat threshing is now on hand and will last for several weeks. This will be a busy time with the farmer, but with a pleasant time. Though there is a great deal of hard work attached to wheat threshing it is generally looked forward to by the country folks with pleasure.

Visions of cakes, pies and other dainties come to the country boy when he thinks of the wheat threshing.

It is true that the custom of having a splendid dinner and having the women and children of the neighborhood present is not as popular now as it was ten or fifteen years ago. What is known as the Independent thresher, where the contract is taken and the owner of the wheat has nothing to do with the hands, is doing away, in a measure, with this custom and perhaps in a few years it will die out entirely.

Those who have seen the good old days when wheat threshing day on the farm was gala day and all the neighbors helped each other and there was a bond of friendship kept up by the association of being together once a year will regret the new order.

Old settlers say that the passing way of the good old days of wheat threshing, log-rolling and corn-husking is causing people to be more selfish and there is not the same feeling of brotherhood that existed when these things were practiced.

Another point about the wheat threshing is that the modern improved thresher is doing away with the use of several hands and the farmers are not compelled to swap work as in "ya" olden days.

An old fellow said the other day that the boys of to-day, who are growing up, don't know what fun it is. If they could go to an old husking bee or logrolling and dance in the barn, they would realize what real fun is. "What the lads call fun now," said the old man, "we called vice."

President Helps Orphans.

Hundreds of orphans have been helped by the President of The Industrial and Orphan's Home at Macon Ga., who writes, "We have used Electric-Bitters in this Institution for excellent medicine for Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles. We regard it as one the best family medicine on earth." It invigorates the vital organs, purifies the blood, aids digestion creates appetite. To strengthen and build up thin, pale, weak children or run-down people it has no equal. Best for female complaints. Only 50¢ at all druggists.

The Saratoga Reservation Bill.

It is for the purpose of preserving to the people of the state and nation these priceless springs that the reservation bill has been conceived and enacted into law. Under it the state is empowered to acquire such of the spring as shall be considered necessary and to administer them as a state holding. To this end, an appropriation of $600,000 is made and a commission of three persons created. Full power is vested in this body to acquire and manage the properties deemed necessary, and a source of through a provision for leasing the privileges of shipping waters outside the reservation.—The Saratoga of Today in the National Magazine for July.

Don't Get a Divorce.

A western judge granted a divorce on account of ill-temper and bad breath. Dr. King's New Life Pills would have prevented it. They cure Constipation, causing bad breath and Liver Trouble the ill-temper, dispel colds, banished headaches, conques chills. 25¢ at all druggists.

The Old Fourth of July.
The Old Fourth of July.

The solemn faces of the descendants of Puritan and Pilgrim, and the dignity of the sons of Cavalier and Huguenot, alike relaxed in the fervor and jollity of the early "Independence Day" celebration. The spirit of enthusiasm, recreation and merriment—generations rigidly repressed by religious conviction among old New England families—found expression in strenuous and semi-military greeting to the new-born republic. Gaily the farmer boy donned his "store clothes," hitched the colt, with knots of ribbon in mane and tail, to the new top-buggy decorated with flags, and "at four o'clock o' the mornin'" sallied forth to spend the whole memorable day with his sweetheart. Rosy-cheeked, garbed in witching white her hat daintily trimmed with the national colors, she awaited him at the gate. As high noon approached they gathered in the grove with the crowd to listen to the Declaration of Independence, read in stentorian tones by some ambitious young lawyer, and sundry "addresses" given by aspirants for political honors.

Little groups gathered on the outskirts of the grounds, the relics of the procession; girls in white with the village bells as Miss Liberty, represented states of the Union. Pitchers of ice water and palm-leaf fans appeared on the flag-draped stand, and the platform was freighted with dignitaries wearing the uniforms of military and naval service of those of the local band.

"Hail Columbia" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were sung by the entire gathering, led by the consolidated church choirs, and after a final "selection" by the brass band, merry luncheon parties gathered under the trees while the boys whooped and fired crackers and little ones clung alarmed to their mothers' skirts—a gathering typifying the republic.

Such celebrations may be but a memory—gone with the masked and ghostly "Calathumpians"—but the small boy of today must have his "shooting pistol" on the Fourth, one that will flash "sure enough" powder and satisfy his innate martial spirit. Torpedoes blue and red lights, tin horns, cow bells—every thing that makes a noise is brought into action to echo the clang of the Liberty Bell in 1776.

In family gatherings the spirit of liberty reigns triumphant even stringent city street regulations are relaxed and the policeman benignly smiles as the small boy joyously shoots off crackers nor frowns when automobile parties whizz by at more than regulation speed.

The rough-and-ready celebration of other days; the merry family gathering the day of sports afield, the massing of the people at pleasure resorts—all are a tribute to the men of '76, for the fourth of July has always kindled up patriotism of the American heart. All hail to Uncle Sam's birthday!

Sound the Hallelujah;
Beat the tom-tom,
Let the eagle scream.
—Joe Mitchell Chapple, in the July National Magazine.

A Horrible Hold-Up.

"About ten years ago my brother was 'held up' in his work, health and happiness by what was believed to be hopeless Consumption," writes W. R. Lipscomb, of Washington, N. C. "He took all kinds of remedies and treatment from several doctors, but found no help till he used Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by six bottles. He is a well man to-day." It's quick to relieve and the surest cure for weak or sore lungs, Hemorrhages, Coughs and Colds, Bronchitis, In Grippe, Asthma and all Bronchial affections. 50¢ and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas the great and supreme ruler of the universe has in his infinite wisdom seen fit to remove from our midst our worthy brother, Otis Maddox, Therefore be it

Resolved, That Beaver Dam Lodge No. 332 I. O. O. F. has lost a faithful and efficient member, whilst in token of our sorrow we wear our usual badge of mourning and that we extend to his wife and child, and to the entire family our sincere and heartfelt sympathy and in conclusion we would say, Look not for consolation to that cold mound that holds his silent form but to the time when parting is no more.

Resolved, That we send a copy of these resolutions to the family and that they be entered on our minutes One to the Kentucky Odd Fellow, also to the County papers for publication.

Daylight and Clock-Time.

General wonder is expressed that the "daylight" bill in charge of Congressman Peters, at Washington, has never been thought of before. When understood it will be considered an innovation of great importance. While being freely discussed changes and improvements are incorporated in the plans. GIBBS' DRY GOODS CO.
ROCKPORT, - KY.

The Location of New York City A Colossal Mistake.

New York has become the greatest deep-foundation city in the world. Nowhere else do men go dry shod eighty-five feet below water-level without intervening barrier—as they did under the Mutual Life Building—and come back to tell about it. Nowhere else do caissons sink at the rate of two feet an hour, as they did on the sites of the North Trinity and United States Realty buildings. Nowhere else does one come upon complete portable air-compressing plants that will stand carting about a city, and when set down are capable of sucking in, compressing, and cooling a column of air a foot square at the rate of forty-five miles an hour. The New England coast has its six and seven-masted schooners; but New York is the only known cruising-ground of the four-masted, four-boomed, electric-driven, rapid-hoisting, self-turning, portable derrick.

The colossal mistake by which New York was originally located is now of incalculable value to our engineering profession; the fact that it stands upon an island several sizes too small, surrounded and partly overlaid by sixty feet of mud, has developed more real engineers in America than all the technical colleges that we have. It is they whom I have respectfully termed web-foot engineers, who have transformed a small river-girt rock-backed, swamp-covered, scarcely habitable island, originally worth twenty-four dollars, into what is now, in some respects, the most livable though in other respects the most unlivable, but at all events the most lived upon most densely populated, richest spot under the sun.—Benjamin Brooke in the May McClure's.

TWENTY-ONE YEARS OLD.

The last issue of the Hartford Republican completed twenty-one years of continuous publication and it is therefore now of lawful age. With the individual the reaching of this period is supposed to carry with it a certain freedom of action as well as new obligations. Our large increase in circulation places us in a more responsible position than when we were a mere youngster sending out only a few hundred copies of the paper each week. Now almost 2,500 copies are issued from our rapid press and the paper is read by more than 10,000 people every week. We shall continue to exercise every care in the selection and preparation of the most readable matter which can be obtained for the edification of our subscribers and readers. We shall also endeavor to take high ground upon all public questions and stand for everything which tends to better the conditions of our people both morally and financially. While Republican in politics, imbibing from the spirit of the times, we expect to reserve the right to think, act and talk with an independence which will insure fair play for everybody, so far as this paper is concerned, no matter to what party he may belong, realizing as we do that all of the good or all of the bad is not contained in either party.

From my premises at Williams Mines, Ky., July 12, 1909, one red cow with large white spots over body, and in forehead, dehorned and about 7 years old.

Also a big red cow, with white spot on left side just behind foreleg and white spot in forehead. About 10 years old.

Information or return of these cows to Mrs. Belle Riley, Williams Mine, Ky., will be rewarded.

While all the Kentucky members of Congress did noble work and deserve credit for the victory which has been won for the tobacco growers in the repeal of the Revenue Tax, there is no doubt that, but for the fact that Senator Bradley threw his whole soul into the matter in behalf of the people.

measure, it would have failed. This goes to show that southern states make a very great mistake in seeking to maintain solid Democratic delegations in the Congress. Especially is this true while the Republican party retains control of the national government. The selection of able men like Senator Bradley from Southern states if continued would give the South prestige which it has not heretofore enjoyed for many years, and enable this section of the country to demand and receive a hearing upon matters affecting our material welfare. We predicted from the start that Senator Bradley would at once take a commanding position in the upper House and our prediction has been more than verified. He should be retained for the rest of his life. His great service in behalf of his country have only begun.

A mirage may occur at any place where the denser stratum of air is placed above the lighter stratum, thus refracting the rays of light, the common surface of the two strata acting as a mirror.

In looming mirages distant objects show an extravagant increase in vertical height without alteration in breadth. Distant bummocks of ice are thus magnified into immense towers and pinnacles, and a ship is sometimes abnormally drawn out until it appears twelve or thirteen times as high as it is long. Rocks are seen drawn up to ten or twelve times their proper height. Lions as well as human beings and animals appear in like exaggerated shape.

Another form of mirage is when a ship or some other object near the water seems greatly elongated and a second inverted image meets it from above.

Sometimes the proper image of the object is elevated far above the sea, while the second image strangely appears inverted beneath it, the whole surrounded by a sheet of sky which is mirrored and repeated within it.

In 1882 in the arctic region Captain Scoresby recognized by its inverted image in the air his father's ship, the Fame, which afterward proved to be seventeen miles beyond the visible horizon of his observation.

One August evening in 1806 Dr. Vince saw from Ramsgate, at which place only the tops of Dover castle towers are usually visible, the whole of the castle. It appeared as though lifted up and bodily placed on the near side of the intervening hill. So perfect was this illusion that the hill itself actually could not be seen through the figure.

Some forms of mirage are lateral as well as vertical, arising from unequal density of two contiguous vertical bodies of air. Thus on Lake Geneva a boat has been seen double, the two images some distance apart.

Persons have been duplicated in the same way. Any one on a hot day by placing his eye near to a heated wall may see lateral mirages of objects at a distance and nearly on a line with the wall.

Mirages are very frequent on deserts or the large sandy plains which abound in the southwestern states and territories. Many a panting wagon train has pushed on in joyful haste at the sight of a green grove or lumpy lake, only to be cruelly disappointed at the fading away of the vision. Is it any wonder that the natives and Indians regard the phenomenon as the work of evil and tantalizing spirits?

Lake Ontario is famous for beautiful and wonderful mirages, during which the opposite shore of the lake is plainly visible from either side.

A Financial Parable.

Just before the collection was taken on one Sunday morning a negro clergyman announced that a certain brother had forgotten to lock the door of his chicken house the night before, and, as a result, in the morning he found that most of the fowls had disappeared. "I don't want to be personal, brother," he added, "but I have my suspicions as to who stole dem chickens. I also hab reason fo' b'lievin' dat if I am right in dese sp'icions dat pusion won't put any money in de plint which will now be passed around."

The result was a fine collection. Not a single member of the congregation fledged sleep. After it was counted the old parson came forward.

"Now, brother," he said, "I doan't want your diners to be spoilt by wonderin' where dat brother lives who doan' lock his chickens up at night. Dat brother doan't exist, mab friends. He was a parable gotten up fo' purpose of finances."

Old Time Salaries.

How often clerks and other employees of big firms are heard to complain of the small salaries they receive! Yet if they realized that Columbus drew a salary of only just over £60 a year they would, perhaps, hesitate before grumbling at their £100 or £150 per annum.

Prominent clergymen have received as much as and more than £10,000 a year, and yet John Knox only got £100 a week, and that was £5. 2d. more than Scottish judges of his time. It must be confessed, however, that at this period of small salaries money went a long way. For instance, a good Christmas dinner for a family of six during the sixteenth century could be provided for an outlay of about eightpence halfpenny—London Standard.

THE MIRAGE.

Conditions That Make Possible This Beautiful Illusion.

About that natural phenomenon, the mirage, much mystery clings in days of old, but science explains it readily as the rainbow.

The fatal morgana of the strait of Messina and the specter of the Brockens were nothing more in sober reality than mere mirage.

A mirage may occur at any place where the denser stratum of air is placed above the lighter stratum, thus refracting the rays of light, the common surface of the two strata acting as a mirror.

Sunday School Notes.

The following Sunday Schools have made reports of their attendance on July 4th: Clear Run, 151; Prentiss, 41; West Point, 44; Smallhouse, 58; Pleasant Hill, 29; Pleasant Walk, Pleasant Grove and Trilster sent report of messengers but no report of attendance. From these reports it would indicate that about 5,000 persons attended on that day.

Don't forget the County Convention in Hartford to-morrow and next day, (July 22 and 23). Come or send a hand. Free entertainment and lunch on the grounds.

Elder Guthrie Birkhead will speak on the organized Bible class. Hear him.

We expect Clear Run choir with J. E. Park, leader; Cromwell choir with Scott McKinney, leader, and probably other choirs to be present and help furnish music.

You will miss it if you don't come.

Notice.

All persons indebted to the estate of C. R. Campbell deceased will please settle at once, and all persons having claims against said estate, will file same, properly proven, with C. M. Crowe, Hartford, Kentucky, by the first day of August, 1909, or they will be forever barred.

Administratrix.

An Appreciation.

"Tis a time for memory and for tears." Tears for a bereaved community; tears for a leaderless church; tears for a family whose heart is crushed, whose threside is desolate. Memories of a life whose untiring energy were given to the uplifting of her fellowman and the upbuilding of her community. Memories of a personality so strong yet so catholic that every life it touched was inspired and broadened by the association. Memories of a faith that faltered not, but onward, upward till fruition was its reward. Memories of a heart so tender that every call, every sorrow, touched a responsive chord. Memories of a home ruled and inspired by an influence so sympathetic yet so whole some that out from its sacred precincts brave women and honorable men, cheered and strengthened, faced and fought life's fierce conflicts. Memories of a woman, who, like her Master, went about doing good. All unconscious of the power she was in her community, all unconscious of the strength she was in her church; all unconscious of the inspiration she was to her brothers and sisters; all unconscious of the support and comfort she was to her aged father. Emma Barnes shed her influence and benedictions as the flower its beauty and perfume.

Emma is gone, but she has written an eulogy in the hearts of loved ones that will illuminate and cheer in hours of sorrow and gloom. She has reared for herself by acts of love and deeds of charity, a monument more enduring than bronze. Her bed sleeps, surrounded by the saluted dust of those she loved in dear old Goshen cemetery; her life, her influence she leaves as a rich legacy to us who survive. May we be worthy of the inheritance. A life so short yet a life so full.

How Would You Like It?

What would you do if you were a big clothier, and had more stock on hand than you could sell this season? Would you keep your money tied up until next year—let the stock get rusty—let your salesmen get tired of showing it—get tired of it yourself—start next season with a half new stock? Or would you say: "I've made some money on Spring and Summer goods; I'll lose a little now; get my money back, bring in some people who haven't been buying of me, make them happy, and when they come next year, show them something they have never seen before, here or anywhere else. ALASKA EXPOSITION WORTH SEEING.

Many Attractions for the Sight
Seer at Seattle,
Wash.

To the Editor. The following should interest your readers and it is hoped you will find it available.

Seattle, July 20.—In the sweltering days of summer, when the mocking birds no longer sing in the wild wood, and "My Old Kentucky Home" become a retreat for suffering humanity longing for some far-off shore, where the air is cool and bracing and Nature is smiling in the fond embrace of perpetual springtime, a visit to the Alaska-Youkon-Pacific Exposition is the logical solution of the problem.

To those of the lower Mississippi Valley who have never taken a trip beyond the "Purple Hills" and over the Cascade Range to the Pacific Northwest an opportunity is now offered which may not return again in this generation. A scenic journey of more than 3,000 miles through fertile valleys along winding streams, up deep mountain gorges, over beautiful spots of the American continent; furnishes the first inducement to undertake this delightful outing.

The Exposition, from the view of the tourist, the student or the capitalist seeking investment for his surplus wealth, becomes at once the compost realization of all his fondest dreams. It is the first World's Fair in the history of nations which has transformed a primitive forest into all the bewitching beauty of an Oriental garden and yet retained the West's rugged wildness and romantic grandeur. Adjoining the Exposition grounds is Lake Washington, acknowledged to be the most beautiful body of fresh water in the Western Hemisphere; plied by excursion steamers, motor-boats, sail-boats and row-boats that furnish an inexpensive means of enjoying all the pleasures to be found on any body of water.

For those who desire a more extended trip on the water, steamers leave Seattle almost daily for the Alaskan coast, providing every comfort and convenience known to ocean voyagers and giving the excursionists an opportunity of seeing the land of gold, glaciers and geysers.

The buildings upon the Exposition grounds will be found to contain all the treasures of ocean forest and earth, so assembled as to give a comprehensive idea of the wonderful natural resources of the Great Northwest the far North the trans-Pacific countries and the world at large.

Nor will one ever grow weary by reason of monotony while visiting the Alaska-Youkon-Pacific Exposition. There are 75 buildings filled to overflowing with every conceivable manner of exhibit, from classic art to recent mechanical inventions; and should the visitor desire a change, the Pay Streak with every variety of amusement which the cleverness of man has been capable of conceiving will supply the variety.

The grounds are as enchanting as the scared groves of Dodona formal gardens showing an array of blooming plants and clinging vines quiet walks and secluded retreats with comfortable seats besides dashing Cascades. Throughout the grounds music is to be had, and free attractions amuse the throngs. Add to this the charm of foam-flecked ocean, snow-capped mountain and sun-kissed lake, and the picture is complete. There can be no better place to spend the summer than at the Alaska-Youkon-Pacific exposition and the visit, no matter how long or how short, will richly reward everyone who undertakes it.

How Bluejackets Make Money.

The possible methods of making extra money on shipboard are manifold. "Tailoring" is one of the most profitable. While a ship's tailor is detailed to most of our ships' duties are limited to making necessary alterations in the uniforms which are issued to the members of the crew. Many enlisted men own sewing machines, upon which they do repair work, and they also do odd jobs for officers, such as pressing and cleaning. A handy man with the needle can also make a handsome sum by doing fancy work. Some of the most delicate embroidery work has been done by sailor-men.

The ship's barber also makes a comfortable living in addition to his regular pay; and the distribution of prizes at target practice enriches the coffers of the gun crew by a considerable sum. Men who are detailed to duty on board submarine boats are allowed an additional five dollar a month, and, besides a dollar a day for every day the boat is submerged. Bluejackets detailed as signalmen as coxswains of power boats or in charge of holds are allowing extra pay. A crew messman receives five dollars a month for performing that somewhat menial function; and the man who is not ashamed to "take in washing" can easily double his navy pay. Every bluejacket is expected to perform the laundering himself; but there are always men who prefer to pay for having the services done.

One of the novel methods of earning an honest penny is for a man with a descriptive knack—usually a yeoman—to prepare an interesting letter upon the cruise of the ship, or some of the strange ports visited the honors paid the vessel the entertainments offered and describing the customs of the inhabitants. These letters are manifold and sold to the members of the crew for fifty cents to a dollar a copy—and usually cheap at that! The parents or relatives of the sailor-boy thus are kept informed of his adventures and experiences, and he is relieved of a task that is irksome to most boys.—John R. Cox, in the National Magazine for July.

ONE NEGRO DYING AND TWO WOUNDED

Wera [Employed on Construction of New Railroad Near Fordsville.

Fordsville, Ky., July 19.—As the result of a fight over a crap game, which took place Friday night, one negro is at the point of death with no chance to live, and two other negroes are seriously wounded. The fight took place at Mitchell, Ky., a railroad camp a mile from Fordsville. The authorities have sent telegrams all over the state describing John Henry, the negro who did the shooting. None of the other negroes' names could be learned.

The negroes were employed in the work of ballasting the M. H. and E. railroad near Fordsville. In an argument over a crap game the Taylor negro took out his pistol and fired into the crowd, shooting one negro through the head. The bullet went through his brains, and when Dr. DeWeese of Fordsville arrived, the negro's brains had oozed out of his head. One of the negroes was shot in the shoulder and the other one shot in the leg. Neither of the latter is seriously hurt. The negro who did the shooting is a new negro in the camp, only having been there one day. The mortally wounded negro is only about seventeen years old and came to Fordsville from Alabama, but his name could not be learned.

Years for Kentucky Bride.
In the Far Northwest, a stalwart young man of Seattle, one with a good salary and promises of fidelity and care, is yearning for a bride from among the fair women of Kentucky. A tribute is paid all "good women," and the women of Kentucky especially in a letter which came this morning addressed to Postmaster R. E. Woods, in which aid is asked in finding a wife. The writer is a member of the fire department of Seattle. The letter falls in as follows:

"Postmaster, U. S. Postoffice, Lewisville, Ky.—Sir: I am a young man, twenty-two years of age, and a driver in the Seattle fire department, with a good salary, and what I want is a good woman between the ages of 18 and 22, to make this life worth living. There are plenty of women in the West, but I have heard a great deal of the good women of Kentucky, and if it is possible, I am going to have one."

"If you will be kind enough to give this well-meant letter to some newspaper, perhaps I will be successful. Perhaps I want too much when I say I want a good-looking refined young woman. If this wish is fulfilled she will never regret it. If you know what it is to be lonely, perhaps you will favor me. Hoping and trusting that you will, I beg to remain, truly yours,

A. G. JOHNSTON,
"Engine Company No. 20, Fourteenth Avenue, West and South street, Seattle, Wash."

Assistant Postmaster John G. Morey in the absence of Postmaster Woods, willingly agreed to act as first aid to Cupid in this matter.—Louisville Journal.

AVERAGED THIRTY- NINE MILES A DAY In His Long Walk From New York To San Francisco Did Weston.

San Francisco, July 14.—Edward pay Weston, the world's veteran pedestrian, completed his walk across the great American continent this evening. He accomplished the walk from New York to this city in 105 walking days, after one of the most strenuous and trying feats in his career.

Though now in his seventy-first year, he has averaged 39 miles a day, having negotiated 3,000 measured miles most of the distance on the railway track, where he asserts a quarter of a mile is lost every hour walked.

Hale and hearty the venerable walker tripped off the last 40 miles of his walk to-day without any apparent distress. He is eating well and the elements to which he has been exposed have turned him a nut-brown to which his snow-white hair and mustache are a startling contrast. He expressed great delight at being back in California again, and recalled with pleasure the walk he made last year when he went from San Francisco to Los Angeles, approximately 500 miles in 12 walking days and made his first acquaintance at that time with the climate of the land of sunshine fruit and flowers.

But for the courtesy of President E. H. Harriman and other Southern Pacific officials, Mr. Weston declares he would never have been able to complete his latter day feat.

He arrived here accompanied by three Southern Pacific officials, who accompanied him with a veloipede from Ogden. Pullman trains were halted for edibles, tea and other necessary provisions, under instructions issued at the head offices of the road.

Wast Paper Economics.

Hearing of processes for the recalibration of waste timber brings to mind the tremendous quantity of paper daily thrown aside as useless. An office of ordinary size produces at least a ton of waste paper in a month, which is disposed of at a price ranging from five to ten dollars. The purchasers of this office by-product feed it to machines that handle the paper by a sort of hay-press process, and the magic machinery returns the solid scraps in pristine whiteness. Waste paper has become so much a matter of course that new offices are built with a papershed, a contrivance for caring directly for this waste. In some business this product amounts to hundreds of tons in a year, and where the amount is large, as in a city printing office it is gathered every day.

In addition to the paper of commercial and manufacturing concerns there is the constant waste going on in every home which would aggregate thousands of dollars every year if accounted for in the economies of the country. Possibly, when the Conservation Commission has disposed of its big problems it will find means to eliminate this source of waste.—Joe Mitchell Chapple, in the National Magazine for July.

The Summer Capital.
Beverly and Manchester-by-the-Sea, on the north shore of Massachusetts, are likely to become the combined summer capital of the nation in 1909. President Taft has chosen to spend the summer months on that historic rocky coast where for years past many prominent members of the diplomatic corps have had their rendezvous.

Environment has a marked influence on opinions and decisions, and prophetic and imaginative souls predict great results when the executive department is companioned for months by the ceaseless ocean-roll that breaks in storm and calm all along the north shore from Gloucester down to Marblehead and Swampscott. The vivifying breeze of that New England coast may induce a breadth of view wide as the great ocean and vigorous as the salt breezes.—Joe Mitchell Chapple in the National Magazine for July.

Dandelion Barometer.
The dandelion is a dandy barometer, one of the commonest and most reliable. It is when the blooms have seed and are in the fluffy, feathery condition that the weather prophet faculties come to the fore. In fine weather the ball expands to the full, but when rain approaches it shrinks like an umbrella. If the weather is inclined to be showery it keeps shut all the time only opened when the danger from the wet is past.

The ordinary clover and all its varieties including the trefoil and the shamrock, are also barometers. When rain is coming the leaves shut together like the shells of an oyster and do assured. For a day or two before rain comes their stems swell to an appreciable extent and stiffen so that the leaves are borne more uprightly than usual. This stem swelling when rain is expected is a feature of many flowering grasses.

The fingers of which the leaves of the horse chestnut are made up are kept flat and fanlike so long as the weather is likely to continue. With the coming of rain, however, they droop as if to offer less resistance to the weather. The scarlet pinwheel is nicknamed the "poor man's weather grass" or wind cope and opens its flowers only in fine weather. As soon as rain is in the air it shuts up and remains closed until the shower or storm is over.

The common garden convolvulus crumples up its delicate blossoms within the space of half an hour if raindrops are on the way, and it keeps them thus until the bad weather has passed.—Chicago Tribune.

TRAPPING A GORILLA

Story of a Vicious Struggle In the African Jungle.

A NET THAT FAILED TO HOLD.

The Snared Monster Broke Through Its Meshes and Was the Cause of One Death Before He Was Himself Killed by the Attacking Party.

Captain Fritz Duquesne, the Boer Ivory hunter, was commissioned by a German naturalist society to capture one of each species of African quadruped. He was entirely successful in the work, except that he could obtain no gorilla. Finally a pygmy pointed out a portion of the dark jungle in which a gorilla had been seen.

The captain immediately arranged his camp and laid his plans and made preparations to trap the monster and get him alive if possible, though he fully realized the danger of the undertaking.

"For four days," said the captain, "we camped in this hotbed of disease. Beaters went out in all directions searching for the gorilla. At last some deep, wide scratches were found on a cluster of vines. On close examination the unmistakable hair of the gorilla was found on a broken twig."

"After some hours we found the tree where the gorilla lived. We could tell it by the greasy appearance of the bark, made so by the repeated rubbing of the gorilla's body. We could tell by the fresh marks, with sap still wet, that the animal had recently ascended the tree. The scratches were short and deep, showing that it had lifted itself up and had not slid down, which would have made a long, shallow scratch."

"We spread a strong net around the tree in a circle sloping upward on the outer side. Around the top of the net there were drawn ropes from four directions, held by half a dozen natives hidden in the bush. These were to bring the top of the net together and thus bag our game."

"After waiting some hours the leaves above rustled and then opened as a six foot male gorilla descended unsuspectingly and entered the trap. I signaled, the four ropes were pulled at once, and we had our animal—for a moment. He roared in fury, twisting, jumping and biting the rope into pieces. The natives were pulled about like dolls as he tried to reach first one and then another. The professor jumped about in excitement, trying to focus a camera on the infuriated animal."

"At last the mighty arms of the gorilla broke a hole through the net, and he tore the rest from him as though it were a rotten rag. Most of the natives fled in dismay. The professor dropped his cameras and tried to escape. In moment the gorilla grasped him in its terrible hands."

"I seized my rifle and fired in the air to frighten the animal. In my position I could not shoot at him without hitting my friend. For a moment the gorilla stood still, holding the now unconscious man, as though he were a baby, the brute's lips drawn back from his glistening teeth."

"I thrust another cartridge in my ride. As I did so there was a buzz in the air, and an arrow, shot by a native, pierced the gorilla's side. A roar burst from his red throat, and he dropped his victim. Like a flash, before I could shoot, a native sprang from the leaves and, half throwing, half thrusting, drove an assualt into the gorilla's heart. With a groan the brute fell dead."

"Examining the professor, I found that his right arm was broken and that some of his ribs were crushed into his lungs. We gave up the effort to get a live gorilla and, placing the injured man in a hammock, carried him back toward the east coast."

"He died on the road. Out on the veld beside a native village a lonely little slab marked 'Carl Bloch' sticks up above the grass. It is the professor's grave. Hunting is not all exciting adventure and laughing victory. It has its tears, like other things."—Hampton's Magazine.

Chances in Gambling.

Henri Poloncure, the leading mathematician of France, declares that there is no infallible martingale or method of doubling one's stakes after every loss. "All one can do," says M. Poloncure, "is to combine one's play so as to have a great chance of winning a little and a little chance of losing much or a few chances of gaining much and many chances of losing little. One can arrange his play so as to have one chance of winning a million francs and a million chances of losing a franc or a million chances of winning a franc and one chance of losing a million francs—and that's all."

Incompatible.

Towne—Well, well, the idea of his marrying Miss Goldie! Why, he's a dyspeptic. Browne—What has that to do with it? She's got plenty of money, and so—Towne—That's just it. She'll never agree with him; she's too rich.—Catholic Standard and Times.

It Had a Charm.

"I do mind Mrs. Jones. She told me all about the doings of the parish."

"It's only gossip—no truth."

"I liked to hear it. True or false was all news to me—such."

"The hours we pass with happy prospects in view are more pleasing than those crowned with fruition.—Goldsmith."

Nationalism in Music.

It is a curious fact that no great national music has ever been written among a people living under a republican form of government. The Swiss are, perhaps, the oldest example of a people living permanently under that regime, and there has never been a Swiss composer of any note or of even moderate ability. Against this it may be urged that the American democracy is unquestionably sui generis; that nothing like it has ever existed before, and that for this reason, being in a position to make precedent for ourselves we need not necessarily consider democracy per se as an inhibitory to musical development. On the contrary, the very variety of the elements which are now forming the American nation would argue in favor of the possibility of the foundation of a national school of music, which, in uniting the characteristics of many peoples, might in time develop into something broader and stronger, fresher, more vital and more spontaneous than anything the world has hitherto seen.—Reginald de Koven in North American Review.

A Sign of Death.

There may have been many "signs" of death—so some people believe—but one described here is probably new to many. Mr. W. B. Cooper of Cheltenham tells of his father being ill, but not confined to bed; and one sunny day in June when he walked across the garden another man, the facsimile of his father, met him and "apparently passed into him."

"Shortly after my father came to me and said, 'Did you see me go across the garden?' I said, 'Yes.' 'Well,' he said, 'I shan't be here long. Our family see themselves before they die. Although I had seen this, I said, 'Non-sense.' He shook his head and walked away. Shortly after he took to his bed and died July 5. My father during the few days he was in bed—we were having a walk at the time—asked each morning, 'Which field are you in now?' When we came to a certain field called 'Cadley,' he said, with a sigh of great satisfaction, 'Ah, I shall die now.'

He died the same morning near mid-day.—T. P.'s London Weekly.

Ordinance.

An ordinance of the City of Hartford, Kentucky, for the construction of concrete pavements on parts of Liberty street.

The City Council of the City of Hartford do ordain at follows:

Section 1. That a concrete pavement five feet wide be constructed on the South side of Liberty street beginning at the intersection of Liberty street and Washington street, at the corner of the property of G. B. Likens on said street and extending on the South side of Liberty street and contiguous with same and in front of said G. B. Likens' property on said street fronting and abutting on same a distance of 214 feet to Cherry Alley; thence across said Alley in front of the property of Mrs. Mary Collins and contiguous with same and in front of Mrs. Collins' property and abutting on said street a distance of 214 feet to Walnut street.

Section 2. That a concrete pavement of not less than five beginning at the intersection on the North side of Liberty street beginning at the intersection of Liberty street with Washington street at the corner of the Baptist church on said Washington and Liberty streets and extending along Liberty street in the direction of the right of way of the Madisonville, Harford & Eastern Railroad Company and abutting on said Liberty street a distance of — feet to the property of Mrs. Lucy Klein; thence in the same direction on said street and abutting on the property of R. Holbrook and abutting on said Liberty street a distance of — feet to the property of Mrs. Maggie Phillips; thence in same direction on said street and abutting on the property of the said Mrs. Phillips — feet to Walnut street.

Section 3. That a concrete pavement be constructed on the South side of Walnut Street where same intersects with Main Street at the property of J. E. Bean on the corner of Walnut street and Main street, beginning with the intersection of J. E. Bean and extending Eastwardly direction along said Walnut street from said corner contiguous to the property of said J. E. Bean and abutting on said Walnut street 198 feet to Apple Alley; thence in same direction on same side of said street and contiguous with same in front of the property of F. L. Felix from the East side of Apple Alley to the property of R. Holbrook; thence in same direction and in front of and abutting the property of R. Holbrook — feet to Liberty street.

Section 4. That the pavements ordered and directed to be erected by said City Council be erected and constructed on said Liberty street and Walnut street in the said City of Hartford, Ky., as set out in Sections 1, 2 and 3 of this article to be constructed of concrete, five feet in width, with a base of cinders or pebbles of sufficient thickness to support said concrete pavement and that the same be constructed in a permanent and workmanlike manner in accordance with the specifications and directions of special engineer who is hereby appointed to superintend the grade of said street as they now exist when said streets shall have been macadamized and said J. B. Wilson is hereby appointed special engineer to grade said street and set stakes indicating the grade at which said pavements are to be built and this be to do before the construction of said pavements.

Section 5. That if any of the property or land owners whose property front and abut on the streets or alleys where side walks or pavements are ordered and directed to be constructed by this ordinance as set out in sections 1, 2, 3 and 4, fail or refuse to make sidewalks as enactment and publication of this ordinance it shall be the duty of the marshal of said city to select and appoint three sober, discreet, intelligent and disinterested housekeepers, who after being duly sworn by the Mayor or some other officer authorized by law to administer an oath to faithfully discharge their duties shall give to each delinquent abutting and fronting land owner who has failed and refused to complete with this ordinance written notice that they will go upon and assess separately the full value of each lot or portion of lots whose owners fail or refuse to comply with this ordinance, in proportion to the frontage of said lot or lots on said streets to the entire length of the whole improvement ordained to be made not to exceed a square to cover the expense of the construction of the work. Said appraisers or assessors shall report their assessment or valuation in writing to the city council and said marshal or supervisor of streets shall advertise the letting of each marshal or supervisor of street shall advertise the letting of each job of unconstructed or uncurbed sidewalk as may remain unimproved, unconstructed, or uncurbed as above provided herein to be let on a day not more than fifteen days after the report of the appraisers herein to the lowest and best bidder. He will give due notice of the letting of such work by advertising same to be taken separately or as a whole, as he deems best, to the said lowest and best bidder by publication in a newspaper published in said city at least fifteen days before said day of letting. He will require of the contractor of said work to enter into a written contract with the City Council of said City in which the specifications herein made for each and all of said pavements shall be inserted for such pavements as he shall by his contract undertake to construct. He shall furnish good and sufficient security to be approved by an order of the City Council to faithfully perform his said contract, and said contractor shall have a lien upon the property fronting and abutting on the street where said pavements or walks is to be constructed for the contract price of said work. In the event of the failure of any one to bid for and secure the said contract or contracts the said City Council upon such failure will proceed to make said pavements and curbs according to the specifications contained in this ordinance retaining a lien upon said property for the expense of constructing the same.

Section 6. The expense incurred in making and constructing the side walks or pavements and grading for same shall be paid by the owners of land fronting and abutting thereon, each lot or portion of a lot being assessed for the full value thereof in proportion to the frontage thereof improvement, not exceeding a square sufficient to cover the total expense of the work.

Approved 7th day of July 1909.
JAMES H. WILLIAMS, Mayor.
Attest: GEO. LEWIS, Clerk.

In Memory.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hurt and took from them their darling babe. She was born August the 14th 1908 died June 13 1909. Weep not dear parents for Lizzie for she has gone where parting is no more. Lizzie was a sweet little girl it was hard to grieve her up, but the happy thought of meeting her in Heaven above, give comfort and peace to our bereaved hearts. May we all live close to God and meet Lizzie in Heaven.

There were ties so sweet and tender. Broken beneath the Heaven Rod; Thus did we in tears surrender. Lizz back to God.

FOR A SPECIAL TRAIN

Quick Action Is Necessary When One Is Ordered.

WORK OF THE DISPATCHER.

This Official Has a Complicated Task In Putting the Special Through Without Interfering With the Running Time of Other Fast Trains.

Suppose you wished to take a special trip to any place on the map and the hour of your sudden resolution was 2 a.m. The chances are against knowing how to make this masterly movement at such an uneventful hour, to say nothing of knowing how to go about it during the hours of business. It is easier than the uninitiated possibly may believe. Of course the principal thing is money, the thing that makes both the mare and the special train go.

The train dispatcher is the official who can start the train while his superiors are asleep and when a wild eyed man who has a race against death to make halfway across the continent dashes into the station looking for a train that will make the distance on its own schedule. What the chief dispatcher wants to be sure about is the identity of the applicant for the unusual privilege and in this connection whether he is able to pay for a special.

Five thousand dollars in bills will make the dispatcher feel very much like ordering out the train. A deposit of that amount in his hands will undoubtedly bring the train out in a few minutes after the order is given. Sometimes a call on the telephone to the residence of a well known citizen who says he will be responsible for the cost of the train will answer the requirements of the dispatcher, or the check of the applicant, if he is a well known citizen, is a sufficient guarantee. It can be made large enough to cover the bill for the special.

In the case of a wealthy man who will let nothing stand in the way of accomplishing his purpose the cost of the train is not a previous consideration. He simply wants to get to a certain point at a certain time. Getting there on time is the uppermost thought in his mind. He paces restlessly up and down the platform until the train backs into the station or on to the siding where he is notified it may be waiting for him. Unless he stipulates that a private car be used in the train he will get a Pullman all by himself or those who accompany him. The use of a private car costs more, but is preferred by the wealthy patron. When everything is ready for embarking the work of the dispatcher has just begun.

This official must put the special through without interrupting seriously the running time of other fast trains. It takes some ticklish work, for the other trains must be "cut out" on side-tracks just before the special is to pass. In this way the schedules of the other trains are not broken more than a few minutes. The special dashes past on the right of way, and the regular fast train follows it. Freight trains using the same track are apt to lie on the sidings longer than the passenger, because they cannot make distance between sidings quick enough to cut out in time to give the special a clear track.

The man who has paid his good money for the right to the train does not expect to be stopped en route, and it becomes the business of the railway or railways over which he is racing against time to afford him all the facilities. Usually in case of such an extraordinary emergency the railway takes great pride in making a record run and landing its patrons at their destination in time to accomplish his purpose. The best engineers obtainable and a trustworthy conductor are placed in charge of the equipment of one engine and one car, for the running at a rate of speed not undertaken in the passenger service.

Usually the extraordinary passenger is required to give the railway company some form of release from responsibility for loss of life or injury from accident due to what might be regarded under ordinary circumstances as a reckless speed, but the man who is racing to see a loved wife or daughter or son is always willing to take a greater risk than at any other time in his existence. But not only is his own life, but the lives of the train crew, in jeopardy during a wild race over the rails. However, on such an occasion the whole crew is imbued with the excitement and heroic nature of the fast mission and contribute in every way to the fulfillment of the errand.

Thousands of dollars have been paid by private citizens for just such races with death and sometimes where great financial crisis is at stake. The railway companies, despite the large honorarium received for undertaking such journeys, are loath to accept a passenger on these conditions. The crisis must be one that involves remarkable stress of mind and money. Usually their acceptance of such great responsibility both to the single passenger as well as thousands of others who may be using the tracks at the same time is governed by a great deal of sentiment.—St. Louis Republic.

A Mystery.

"Constable—Now, gen'l'men, we've traced these here cloots—the footprints o' the boss an' the footprints o' the man—to th' stump. From here on thar's only the footprints o' the boss. Now, the question is, Wot's become o' the man?—Life."

As we act toward others we may expect others to act toward us.—Syrus

RAW DRUGS.

Castor Oil Comes as Pretty Little Brown and Black Beans.

Upon going into a pharmacy and looking over the mysterious jars and bottles and boxes that line the shelves did you ever wonder where on earth all of the drugs came from and how they appeared before they were ground up and made into oils or dried or pulverized or crystallized into queer shaped lumps? Each jar and box seems to hide some secret which you immediately become curious to solve. How many different kinds do they represent? And, after they leave the jars that hold them now, what are they made into?

Who, for example, would connect a great pile of dry, thin twigs, neatly tied into small bundles, with sarsaparilla? These twigs are the creeping roots and rootlets of a prickly shrub that grows in Jamaica, and they are worth from 10 to 50 cents a pound. Somewhat similar in appearance is Ipomoea, which also comes to us in dry twigs, which are part of the trailing root of a plant found in the damp forests of Brazil.

These roots receive no preparation save drying before they are shipped off to the United States. They are packed in large sacks, and the workmen who open the bales must beware of breathing the pungent, irritating dust given off, which is productive of unpleasant results if inadvertently inhaled.

Castor oil, too, is hard to recognize in the pretty little brown beans, spotted with black and with polished skins, that arrive in bags from India. They look far too attractive to suggest the much hated dose of our early days.

Aloes, the base of many nauseous medicines, may be seen in its crude form as a solid mass resembling brown sealing wax, packed in heavy wooden boxes, from which it is chipped out in flakes with a chisel and hammer.

It is of different qualities and pieces, according to whether it comes from Arabia, Socotra or the West Indies, and may bring any sum from $4 to $45 per hundredweight. Aloes is the juice of the big fleshy leaves of the plant of that name. This juice is pressed or evaporated from the leaves and poured into chests or kegs in a semi-fluid state, hardening presently into a solid block. Not infrequently it is inclosed in the dry skins of monkeys and in this strange form brought to market.

One of the most interesting of drugs is opium, both on account of its awful potency and by reason of its great value. A case of opium, about 225 pounds, is worth $400 roughly. The case is of rough deal lined with tin and contains a number of soft, dark lumps, like large handfuls of dough packed very closely together in a quantity of dry, chaffy seeds.

The opium which reaches America is of two qualities, one for medicine, the other for smoking, and comes from Persia and Asia Minor, China and India.—St. Louis Republic.

MONEY OF THE RICH.

Of More Use Foolishly Spent Than Hoarded or Lying Idle.

A great reservoir of water undistracted leaves men and women to perish of thirst and growing crops to parch and die. So also waits bulging with stagnant money leave men and women to perish in abject poverty and ripened crops to rot within the fields and orchards that grew them. Therefore what happens to the dollars of the millionaire is question of the first importance.

Those of us who believe in praying for material blessings will do well to pray long and earnestly that rich women will never cease to buy $100 hats and $1,000 gowns, with diamonds and other jewels to match; that they will continue to give balls and teas and entertainments of the most expensive kind; that they will be recklessly extravagant in gewgaws and folderols of every description, because it will be good for us who depend upon an income drawn from the multitude of operations involved in producing, merchandising and transporting all those gewgaws and other gizmos that go to keep extravagance at a high pitch.

Let us hope that rich men's sons will continue to spend their fathers' money as foolishly as they are reputed to do—not because it will be good for them, but because it will be good to have the money poured into the wage earner's money channels. Let us be thankful, too, that neither the dollars of the rich nor the dollars of the poor are of any value save as they go into the wage channels of active circulation.—F. W. Hewes in Harper's Weekly.

His Shrewd Idea.

"Who is that sour looking girl with the heavy underjaw?"

"That is the only daughter of old Mr. Milyun."

"And who is the dainty bit of sweetness with the blue eyes and golden hair?"

"That's the emperon."

"What's the explanation?"

"Why, it's old Mr. Milyun's clever idea. He thinks his Jimmie will be perfectly safe so long as Miss Blossom is around."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Easy.

"What can a doctor do when he gets a patient who neither drinks nor smokes?"

"Tell him to stop eating certain things. Everybody eats."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
